CHINESE MATA HARI SAID TO HAVE BEEN EXECUTED IN CANTON

Travelling as president and official spokesman for the Little Entente nations, M. Nicholas Titulescu, Foreign Minister of Roumania, is making a tour of the capitals of Europe, which is interpreted as a move to ring Germany with nations supporting France.

ROOSEVELT ATTACKED

PRESIDENT SHOT AT FROM THREE QUARTERS

Tax Refusal Threat
From Huey Long

DENOUNCED IN SENATE AS SECOND LENIN

Washington, To-day.
President Roosevelt was under fire from three quarters yesterday. Senator Huey Long followed up the previous day's attack by violently denouncing the President in the Senate. He announced that Louisiana would refuse to pay Federal taxes if relief funds were withheld. The blind Senator, Mr. Thomas B. Schall, asserted in the Senate that if the President's wishes were fulfilled he would become a god, as Lenin was substituted for the Divinity in Russia. Meanwhile Governor Talmadge of Atlanta announced that it would be a national calamity for America and the Democrats if Roosevelt were re-nominated for the Presidency.—Reuter.

COMMUNICATIONS BANK MEETING

New Chairman Of Directors

Shanghai, To-day.
Mr. Su Pikiang has been appointed chairman of the board of directors of the Bank of Communications by Mr. H. H. Kung the Finance Minister, following the board meeting yesterday afternoon, when two Government members for the standing committee of seven were elected. The two persons were Messrs. Soong Tze-ling and Yang Tun-fu.—Reuter.

ARMY EXECUTIVE PASSES

Lt.-Gen. Sir Richard Butler

London, to-day.
The death, at the age of 84, has occurred of Lieut.-Gen. Sir Richard Harte Keatinge Butler, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., who, as Deputy Chief of the General Staff on the Western Front from 1916 to 1918 was the late Fieldmarshal Earl Haig's right-hand man.—Reuter.

FORMOSAN RELIEF WELL IN HAND QUARTER OF A MILLION SUFFERERS

BRITISH NAVY ASSISTANCE NOT REQUIRED

Taihoku, Formosa, To-day.
Warm sunshine and no flooding in North-west Formosa after a night of terror are enabling relief parties of the Army, Navy and Red Cross to come to grips with the task of alleviating the miseries of approximately 250,000 earthquake sufferers.

The relief columns sent by the Army have reached the heart of the affected area with medical aid, food and blankets while the Navy has rushed the destroyer Shimakaze to the coast with supplies and doctors.

Japan has replied expressing her warm appreciation of Britain's offer to send ships from the China station, but saying that the assistance of the British Navy was not needed at present.—Reuter.

Following the receipt of this information, the "stand by" order given H.M.S. Cornwall by the local Naval Authorities yesterday was removed.

GIANTS OVERWHELM PHILLIES

Bonura Hits Two Homers In U.S. Baseball

DETROIT TIGERS BLANKED

New York, To-day.
There was only one baseball game played in the National League yesterday, New York Giants overwhelming the Phillies by an 8 to 1 margin.

In the American League Willie Hudlin blanked the Tigers for a 5-0 Cleveland win.

Results, as cabled by Reuter, were:

| National League        |    |    |    |  |

BRITISH SHIPPING REPORT

Not So Many Vessels Laid Up In Port

London, To-day.
Shipping laid up in the ports of Great Britain and Ireland on April 1 shows a striking decrease of 172,717 tons, as compared with January 1, equivalent to 19.7 per cent. and of 373,322 tons, or 34.6 per cent., as compared with April 1, 1934. The London docks alone show a decrease of 108,000 tons for the quarter-year.—Reuter.

ARMY SERGEANT ROBBED

Sergeant R. H. G. Phitt, R.E., residing at the Garrison Sergeant's Mess, Wellington Barracks, reports that at between 1 a.m. and 7 a.m. yesterday, somebody stole from his room a cigarette case valued at $15, one fountain pen, value unknown, and $5 in cash.

Tokyo, To-day.

A message from Tokyo states that aeroplane surveys of Formosa indicate that the earthquake's devastation covered approximately 2,000 square miles from Shinhiku City in the north to Taichu City in the south and from the sea coast eastward as far as the mountains, where the aborigine head-hunters dwell.

Formosa's principal industry, sugar, is virtually unscathed, the majority of the mills and cane-fields being outside the district.—Reuter.

Latest Figures Of Disaster

Taihoku, To-day.
The latest official figures of the disastrous earthquake are:
3065 killed.
7889 seriously injured.
1,490 slightly injured.
24,936 houses wholly or partially destroyed.
5,209 houses damaged.—Reuter.

British Naval Offer

Tokyo, Later.

Captain J. G. P. Vivian, the British Naval Attaché, on behalf of Admiral Sir Frederick Dreyer, conveyed to the Japanese Navy Ministry his expression of sympathy together with an offer to send ships of the China station with relief supplies to Formosa.

The Navy Ministry, while expressing its sincere appreciation replied that the situation was well in hand and the British Navy's assistance was not at present needed.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI VISITORS CUP AT FANLING

D. S. Edward's Triumph

D. S. Edward (4), with 69-78-147-8-139, won the "Shanghai Visitors Cup" at Fanling over the week-end, though the scores are subject to a final check.

Other scores were:

R. K. Collings (7) 79-75-154-14-140.
A. Sommerfelt (12) 77-89-160-24-142.
L. Goldman (9) 79-85-164-18-146.
K. J. S. Key (14) 84-91-175-28-147.

The United States Navy Training Squadron No. 2 becomes the winner of the famous Schiff Trophy when its record of three minor accidents in 10,000 hours of flying, was judged the best. President Roosevelt is shown presenting the cup to Lieutenant L. A. Mosbua, who accepted the trophy for his squadron at Washington.

PROVINCIAL TROOPS JOIN REDS

ARREARS IN PAYMENT CAUSES DEFECTION CHENG TU OFFENSIVE WILL BE BEGUN VERY SHORTLY

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Canton, To-day.

Chungking reports stated last night that the Communists are still 35 miles away from Chengtu, former provincial capital of Szechuen and treaty port on the upper Yangtze.

General Ho Kuo-kwang, chief of the Military Staff Commission in Chungking, has imposed a strict press censorship at Chungking and Chengtu, which gives out only favourable official reports.

"Forward" Hsu, the Red leader who directed the offensive on Chengtu, have been reinforced by over 5,000 provincial troops, who referred to join the Reds rather than be demobilized. Their defection to the Communists was owing largely to the fact that they had received no pay for several months.

ARMY SOCCER CUP

Tank Corps Defeat Ulsters

London, To-day.

In the final of the Army Association Cup the 4th Battalion of the Royal Tank Corps defeated the 2nd Battalion of the Royal Ulster Regiment by 6 goals to 3 at Aldershot.—Reuter.

Last year the Royal Tank Corps were beaten in the final by three clear goals by the King's Own Royal Rifle Regiment.

EUROPEAN LADY REPORTS ROAD ACCIDENT

Mrs. Miskin, of No. 104 The Peak, reports that at 8 a.m. yesterday, while driving her car, No. 8624, along the main road at Shaikwan, an eight year-old boy, Tang Thoo, ran out from behind a tram-car, which was travelling in the opposite direction, and struck the right mudguard of her car. The boy sustained a slight fracture of the leg.

DESTROYERS DUE TO-MORROW

H.M.S. Decoy, H.M.S. Diana, H.M.S. Dainty and H.M.S. Defender, of the Eighth Destroyer Flotilla, which have been on a short cruise, are due to arrive in the Colony to-morrow afternoon from Kwang Chau Wan.

INTRIGUES OF LOCAL BEAUTY

AIR CORPS OFFICERS INVOLVED

BOMBSHELL IN OFFICIAL CIRCLES

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Canton, To-day.

The allegation that a Chinese Mata Hari has been caught and executed here has created a sensation. Vernacular press reports stated that she has been sentenced to death, together with other officers formerly connected with the Canton Army Air Corps.

The charge against them was that they were engaged in political activities on behalf of certain interests detrimental to the safety and peace of the province, according to the same reports.

The woman in the case is a noted beauty who has been often seen at dances and other social parties with dashing officers of the Air Force. Her beauty is renowned.

No definite information is available as to the fate of persons concerned. It is believed in well-informed circles that even if they were under arrest they would not be shot until after a protracted investigation as to who had directed the political intrigue.

ROBERT HAAS ARRIVES HERE ON SOUTHERN MISSION REPRESENTATIVE OF LEAGUE

Leaving For Canton To-night

Mr. Robert Haas, the League of Nations' liaison officer, arrived in the Colony this morning by the m.v. Felix Roussel, en route to Kwangtung and Kwangsi before sailing for Europe.

Interviewed shortly after the vessel had docked, Mr. Haas said that he was on an annual liaison mission to China and had made short, detailed trips into the provinces of Shantung, Hopei, Shan-si, Shensi, Honan, Hunan, Hupeh, Kiangsi, Chekiang and Kiangsu.

There was absolutely no political significance attached to his tour, which was mainly for the purpose of meeting various Government officials and technical experts in subjects in which the League of Nations was interested. (Continued on Page 18)

His Canton Visit

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Canton, To-day.
In connection with the visit of Robert Haas, representative of the League of Nations to Canton next week, Dr. Kan Chia-hou, Special Delegate of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, yesterday expressed his pleasure in the forthcoming meeting with the League official and the League's secretary, Mr. Wu Shih-feng.

Dr. Kan received a telegram on Wednesday last from Mr. Haas, stating that he and Mr. Wu were sailing from Shanghai on Saturday on board the steamer Felix Roussel to visit the South-west leaders. (Continued on Page 18)

WEATHER REPORT

An area of moderately high pressure extends from the lower Yangtze Valley to south Manchuria and to the Bonin Islands. A depression is moving eastward over Hokkaido. The local forecast for to-day, as issued by the Royal Observatory Chinese male, Young Hing, aged 44, last night light to moderate; cloudy, local showers.

CANTON-HAINAN AIR LINE

Bi-Weekly Service To Be Inaugurated

Canton, to-day.

In view of the increase in traffic on the Canton-Hainan line the Southwest Aviation Corporation has decided to increase the run to twice weekly instead of once a week. The plane on this line will leave Canton for the island every Monday and Wednesday and return to Canton on Tuesday and Friday.

The increased service will be tried out from May 15.—Central Press.

JEAN BATTEN AT BAGDAD

Hopes To Take-Off Again To-night

Bagdad, to-day.

Miss Jean Batten, the young New Zealand airwoman, who is flying solo from Sydney to England, has arrived here and hopes to leave to-night.

She needs to reach England within three days to beat the time of her outward flight.—Reuter.

GIANT CLIPPER HOPS OFF FOR HOME

Not Yet Ready For Entire Trip

Honolulu, to-day.

The Pan-American Airways' Oriental Clipper, the giant Sikorsky flying boat built for the trans-Pacific service, has started on its return flight.

It is pointed out that the flight is an experimental one, and that the clipper is not yet ready to make the entire 2,500-mile trip to China.—Reuter.

Rescued from the Harbour yesterday by a seaman from the Yawak ferry from which he had fallen, a Chinese male, Young Hing, aged 44, last night light to moderate; cloudy, local showers.

Fabrics That Will Dominate The Dress World

NOVELTY SPRING TWEEDS AND GREAT SUMMER VOGUE OF TAFFETA

(By The Hon. Mrs. C. W. Forester)

From the Nile comes the colour, from the monastery comes the vogue. A Nile green crepe afternoon gown, a favourite with Blanca Vincher, the film actress. A corded belt of Nile green silk and five rhinestone buttons at the back closing are the only trimmings.

LOUNGING PYJAMAS

Material From Old Velvet Dresses Used

The material of old velvet dresses which is still good can be made into lounging pyjamas. First cut off the bodice and finish off the waist with a belt and placket hole. Then pin the front and back of the skirt together up the centre to just above the knee, and cut up this line. Finish with neat French seams, taking special care of the turn at the top.

TAFFETA SCARF

With a little taffeta left over after lining a coat you can make a short quilted scarf—just big enough to tie in a knot with perky ends; if you have enough after this is done it can be used to make a new top to the crown of a last season's straw hat, which can be brought up to date with a little manipulation.

BRIGHTENING A GOLD AND PEARL PENDANT

To brighten up a gold and pearl pendant and chain rub the pearls with dry, soft tissue paper, and wash the chain in hot, soapy water, with a little ammonia added. Brush the interstices with a toothbrush, and rub dry on a soft towel, using a silk duster or a leather for final polishing.

Materials for Spring and Summer have never been more exquisite in texture or so soft in colour, blend and finish. The new woolens are specially good, more on account of their fine blends and shadings than because of any ultra-boldness of pattern.

There are some interesting sporting designs in checks, stripes and plaids, but the blended two-or three-shaded-look makes for subdued effects. The worsteds are soft and some are woven with silk. There are Angora surfaces to flannels, and a variety of familiar jerseys and stockinette that have strange weaves introduced so that they appear to be a novelty fabric. There is a tendency among exclusive tailors to feature the two-tone-broken tweeds for the early Spring suits. Some of these have a soft, hairy surface, more like real camel's hair, and are wonderfully warm, as required for the winds of March! They look well, these shaded tweeds, made up on clear tailored lines; some have detachable capes. The cape for smartness and extra warmth is helpful when we discard fur coats. Navy and grey, brown-and-beige, green-and-beige, red-and-fawn, with black-and-white leading, are among the favourite tones for the broken patterned tweeds.

There is a demand for the Oxford-grey flannel and knitted selection in tones of grey, from silver to platinum. Grey will be prominent as a colour for the summer as well as the spring colour card. The new ways with wool fabrics and tweeds are very becoming. The broken blends and blurred hairy softened surfaces are easy to wear. Some have a gauze finish, which transforms any harsh character there may be in the stuff. The new products in fabric alone will make this season interesting. There are endless manifestations of novel treatment in materials that come under familiar categories.

A Silk Season
After the spring wools come the summer silks, and this range will be specially interesting as this is to be a very dressy season, full of silks, satins and all-luxury fabrics. Taffeta has a special importance, and it is a revival. It was used in the Regency period and later for Victorian and Edwardian fashion creations. It is a silk that lends itself to all sorts of new treatments. It can be light or heavy, crisp or soft, just as a special style requires. It may swing or rustle, or be plain, checked, gauged, shirred or stitched in treatment.

In black, taffeta predominates as a fashion leader. Summer demands will see taffeta in many colours, also in small checks or fine stripes, worn for separate capes and coats. Hats, gloves and neckties will be of taffeta.

Plain black or navy taffeta frocks will be worn under gay little coats or striped taffeta. Sometimes a blouse and skirt of grey taffeta, of Quaker-like simplicity, will take a black and coloured striped cape with squared, hunched shoulders.

Little suits of black and dark coats and skirts of this silk look delightful when the fabric is stitched all over in a quilted design.

For real hot days we can admire lovely shot and shaded chiffons or crepes including many new rayon prints. Again there seems to be a fragile filmy surface for these fabrics.

Some very successful models have demonstrated the colouring of sweet-pea. Delicate floral designs on a mauve-purple or grey ground, trails of softly shaded blossoms all blending into a pastel finish, stress two or three colourings in plain crepe de Chine or satin for fichu, belt, pockets and sleeves.

Oriental Effects.

Here and there one notices Chinese prints in design and new marquette surfaces. A model in Wedgwood-blue had a scrawled pattern of greys and blues blending into a misty blue. These new crepes and chiffons with painted pictures will be seen at Ascot, and are quite different from the familiar floral patterns we know so well.

Designs are inspired by Japanese gardens and eighteenth-century prints. Colourings are dim, but arresting in their beauty. Violent colours are absent from the best productions of this season. In fact, all the once-termed futurist shadings have disappeared.

Bright spots on a dark satiny ground are very wearable, but sober shades prevail as a general rule. There are tiny organdie and chiffon spotted gauzes worn over taffeta coloured underslips—a delightful old-world mode.

Nets and fine laces of all kinds treated in the novel modern manner will equally assure a successful season in fabrics.

Specially lovely for debutantes are the very fine filmy laces in pale colours lit up by a thread of silver embroidery. They are very light and simple, and yet sufficiently elaborate for Court frocks and trains.

What Do Fashion Papers Mean To You?

You ladies who delight to scan the fashion papers, is it not true that your interest and enjoyment are greater when you are feeling fit? It is then that you visualize yourselves in the different creations, and not when worry over your health is uppermost in your mind.

So it is throughout the routine of daily life, your enjoyment depends on your state of health. Health depends primarily on the condition of your blood. If the blood is thin and weak then you are an easy victim to a host of ailments, not the least of which are back-pains, insomnia, indigestion, rheumatism, palmar, neuritis, poor appetite, depression, nervousness, emaciation.

To be happy and well you must keep your blood in good condition, and in the East great demands are made upon it, due to excessive perspiration in the heat which renders it thin and poor. A tonic capable of maintaining the blood at a high level both in quality and quantity is what you require, and for this purpose there is none better than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, known throughout the world on account of its proved efficacy for rehabilitating the blood. If you are feeling run down or depressed take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; they have restored many such sufferers to robust health. Obtainable at all chemists.

BRIDGE NOTES

A Gambit In Bridge

By E. V. Culbertson

A man with a hundred dollars in the bank and, with a premonition that the bank is about to fall is strongly tempted to draw his money out immediately. If enough people have the same premonition and act accordingly, the bank is quite likely to do what is expected of it. In Bridge, a player defending against a trump contract and holding the Ace of a side suit in which Dummy has a singleton, is tempted to play it on the first round, and though this is the correct play in a great majority of cases, there are some situations in which, like a run on the bank, it results in bringing about exactly what is feared.

On to-day's hand the East player found the only method of defeating the opponents' contract was in deliberately sacrificing a trick by not going up with an Ace. The sacrificing of this trick eventually enabled the defensive team to win two other tricks which they would not have won had East grabbed the first one. This deliberate immediate sacrifice, with future profit in view, is equivalent to a gambit in chess.

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South West North East

1S. 2H. 2S. 3C.

3S. (1) Pass 4S. (2) Pass

Pass

1—Slightly optimistic. However,

North has given a free raise and South accordingly decides to show his slight additional strength.

2—Another slight overbid. North has previously given a free raise and just barely has it.

Conservative tactics would suggest the expediency of a pass.

Having no way of knowing his opponents' exact holding, West decided to make an innocuous an-opening as possible and chose the nine of clubs, the highest of his partner's suit. The singleton, of course, was played from Dummy, and East fought down the natural impulse to play his Ace until he had stopped to analyse the situation.

From the bidding, he knew that the declarer could not have more than two hearts and accordingly

the only hope of defeating the contract lay in taking two tricks in the diamond suit. He realised from his partner's opening lead that the South must hold the King and Queen of clubs guarded at least once. Accordingly, if the club Ace were played to the first trick two clubs would be set up in the South hand and these cards would provide discards for Dummy's two low diamonds. With this occurring there would be no way of defeating the contract.

East therefore decided not to go up with the Ace of clubs, but to let his partner's nine ride. He realised that if he did this he would never be able to win a club trick.

However, he further knew that

South would never be able to set up his other club honour and as a result if West held the diamond

Queen, the East and West partnership would probably take two diamond tricks.

Obviously, everything turned out exactly as East had figured. South was unable to avoid the loss of two diamond tricks and two heart tricks, and East's correctly conceived hold-up brought about the defeat of the contract. It is equally obvious that had East gone up (with the club Ace, no subsequent line of defence could have stopped visit to Peking. He will confer the eventual diamond discards and with many Chinese and Mongol cross-ruff, and the contract would have been fulfilled.

Shirley Temple, filmdom's child sensation, has millions of fans, but none more ardent than her big brother Jack, who is 20. While Shirley's father was signing her new contract calling for U.S.$1,250 per week, the tiny star enjoyed a "piggy-back" ride on brother Jack.

WHEN HIS BEARD WAS REMOVED

Arrest Follows Exposure

Tokyo. Police recently rounded up a gang of large-scale forgers because the gang chieftain could not resist his appetite for noodles.

Five members of the hoodlum mob were captured in a house, to which police had followed the leader, Hisao Honda, from a neighbouring restaurant.

The gang had, several years ago, forged Government bonds amounting to several million yen, a part of which were disposed of to innocent investors.

For three years, Honda walked about the streets disguised in a bushy black beard and was not recognised. He was in a restaurant for lunch one day and removed the beard in order to eat a dish of noodles.

The proprietor became suspicious and called police, who followed him to his lair. Police officials said that a new batch of freshly-printed bonds were found in the forger's house.

BOLTON AND DARLINGTON DROP POINTS

London, To-day.

The Easter Monday soccer programme provided many upsets, Portsmouth trouncing Manchester City at Fratton Park, thus further enhancing the Arsenal's chances of winning the championship — the Londoners beat Middlesbrough in their away fixture by the only goal.

Leicester are making a determined effort to avoid relegation, and yesterday held Grimsby to a draw, while Birmingham, who are lying third from the bottom of the table, beat Leeds by the odd goal in five at home.

Preston put a spoke in Sunderland's wheel as the result of their home draw.

TWO REFEREE SYSTEM AND HOW IT WORKED

UNFORTUNATE DECISION OF F.A. MARS TEST

ENGLAND TRIAL GAME IS TOO EASY

(By Frank Coles)

London, March 28.

LIKE the majority of the 12,845 people who saw England and The Rest play a 2-2 draw at West Bromwich yesterday, I found it very difficult to follow the play and, at the same time, concentrate on the two-referees experiment.

I think the Football Association made an unfortunate decision when they chose a Trial match for this second experiment. Not only was the onlookers' interest diverted, but the drawing-room atmosphere in which the game was played — there was none of the keen tackling we see when League points are at stake — went a long way towards destroying the value of the test.

We saw two able officials, Mr. E. Wood and Dr. A. W. Barton, spend a comfortable, easy-going hour and a half. Actually there were only eleven infringements during the whole game — five fouls, four cases of hands and two of offside.

The Chester experiment of the referees working almost exclusively down the right and left wings respectively, with the linesmen taking one half of the field only, was not repeated.

SATISFACTION FELT BY ONE & ALL

A. W. CARR AND THE CAPTAINCY

(By Thomas Moulton)

Nottingham, March 22.

THE unparalleled chapter in cricket history which Notts County Cricket Club have been helping to write reached an astonishing climax at the annual meeting here to-day.

The opposition, who had carried an emphatic vote of no confidence in the committee only two months ago, collapsed utterly. Their resolution was rescinded and an apology sent to Dr. Gauld, the hon. secretary and medical adviser, with a request that he would withdraw his resignation from the club.

"It is all over," Mr. Seely Whitby, one of the opposition leaders, said to me afterwards. "There is nothing more to be said or done." He expressed surprise at the outcome, but the changed atmosphere was surely apparent immediately the proceedings began.

HOURS OF PLAY IN CRICKET TESTS WITH SOUTH AFRICA

Hours of play in the Test matches against South Africa in the coming season will be: First day, 11.30 a.m. to 6.30 p.m.; second and third days, 11 a.m. to 6.30 p.m. If, after the fourth Test, neither side has gained an advantage the final match will be extended, if necessary, to six days.

Aware that the meeting of county secretaries to arrange fixtures for 1936 had been postponed until after the Notts annual meeting, the thousands members present were in a decidedly apprehensive mood, and they agreed with Mr. E. McCraith, a member of the committee, when he declared: "We must face the facts that we stand condemned."

Mr. A. C. Adams, the chief opposition spokesman, was listened to with impatience when he seconded the resolution in support of the M.C.C. ruling on direct attack bowling.

FOOTBALL SETBACKS

Brentford established a substantial lead in the Second Division with an away victory over Bradford, while Bolton were beaten by Swansea in an away fixture.

Nottingham County, who, unless they annex the remaining games will be relegated, beat Port Vale at home by 3 goals to 2, but Bradford City, who are second from the foot of the list, lost to Barnsley.

In the Third Division (North) Tranmere staged a comeback with a "three clear goals" home victory over Mansfield, while Accrington caused a minor sensation with a win over Darlington at home.

In the Southern section Southend caused an upset by beating Brighton at home by the odd goal, but are by no means clear of the relegation spectre.

In the only Scottish League game yesterday, Queen's Park won at home, beating Partick by 3 goals to 1.

OTTO PELTZER TO RETIRE

He Set Up Record At Stamford Bridge

Cologne.

Dr. Otto Peltzer, the German champion, who set up a world record of 1 min 51.3-sec for the half-mile in the A.A.A. Championships at Stamford Bridge in 1925, has announced his retirement from the track. He has taken part in international athletics for fifteen years.

Peltzer's thrilling race at Stamford Bridge, when he gained a narrow victory over D.G.A. Lowe, the English champion, who later beat the German in the Olympic games, has been described as the greatest half-mile ever run in Great Britain. Despite his age—he is 35—Peltzer took part in an international sports meeting in Germany last year, and surprised the critics by winning the half-mile.

DAY OF UPSETS AT VALLEY

MR. PIH LEADS JOCKEYS: MR. CARVALHO THROWN

"DOUBLE" PAYS $891.70

LEADING the field from start to finish, Touchstone, with Mr. Proulx up, caused the biggest surprise of the afternoon when he won the Blue Pool Handicap at the Fourth Extra Race Meeting of the Hong Kong Jockey Club yesterday to pay $459 for a win.

Incidentally, this was the only dividend over $100, although there were other surprises in later races. Mr. E. H. Carvalho, riding Strathaird, was thrown at the commencement of the same race, when his mount shied at the start, but, fortunately, he only sustained a gash on the forehead and bruises and abrasions to his right thigh.

Mr. H. C. Pih topped the winning jockeys' list with three firsts, a second, and a third in nine starts, while the prospective champion jockey, Mr. Leo Frost, secured two firsts and a third in nine races.

The L. T. F. stable was the most successful of the day, securing two firsts, a second, and a third, while the Dunbar stable obtained two firsts.

The three supporters of Victoria Hall (Mr. da Rosa) and Saucy Face (Mr. Pih) in the "daily double" were each rewarded with $891.70.

Summarised results were as follows:

1.—12.30 p.m.—Sugar Loaf Handicap.—Winner $400. Second $175. Third $75. For China Ponies, Grifins of this Season that have won $250 or less in stakes. Entrance $5. One and a Quarter Miles.

NEW CANTON PAPER FACTORY

All Important Parts Ready

SWEDISH MACHINERY TO BE INSTALLED

Canton, to-day. The work of constructing the paper factory at Nan-shih-tow is fast proceeding. According to the Reconstruction Department, the main part of the factory has been completed and the small road leading from Feng-wang-kong to the plant is nearing completion. Schemes are now being drafted for the construction of a sulphuric acid reservoir and other buildings of secondary importance.

The first portion of the machinery ordered in Sweden is expected to arrive here very soon. In order to facilitate transportation of these machines to the factory, a temporary railway connecting the plant and its wharf has been built.

As fir wood has been chosen as raw material for the manufacture of the paper, the Reconstruction Department has instructed various counties to speedily draft schemes for the planting of fir trees in order that raw material may be had in sufficient quantities.—Central Press.

CANTON MILL NEARS COMPLETION

Canton, To-day. Preparations for the opening of the Provincial spinning and weaving factory are now in full swing, according to the Re-construction Department. The operation of the cotton weaving department will be started next month and the yarn spinning department will probably

PLAN TO DEVELOP KWANGSI

Institute Formed For This Purpose

MANY PROBLEMS TO BE TACKLED

Canton, to-day. Concentrating their attention on the development of reconstruction enterprises, the Kwangsi provincial authorities have decided to establish a reconstruction problem study institute in that province. A meeting was held by the Party, political and military bodies of Kwangsi on April 13, in which the regulations governing the organization of the institute were decided upon. Among the important points are the following:

That the work of the institute be confined to the study of the reconstruction problems of the province; that the institute be under the control of the Kwangsi Provincial Government; that the presidency of the institute be held concurrently by the chairman of the province; that three departments be established in the institute, that is, the political, the civic, and the economic; and that the members of the institute be appointed by the Provincial Government, and must be university graduates, graduates of secondary schools and have served in Government organs or public bodies for one year, or government officials of the third rank.—Central Press.

begin work in the coming June. Being aware that a large quantity of cotton will be wanted in the future, the Re-construction Department is now contemplating changing fallow lands in various counties into cotton planting stations. All of them have been ordered to make investigations. —Central Press.

Dr. Georg von Dehn, until recently German Minister to the Irish Free State, has been recalled from his post as Minister to Rumania because of the publication of this picture in Germany. He is shown leaving the ring of Mgr. Paschal Robinson, Papal Nuncio in Dublin, on his departure. Reichsfuehrer Hitler held that Dr. Dehn's mode of farewell was unworthy of a diplomat and dismissed him.

USE FOR SURPLUS ELECTRIC POWER

High Temperatures At Low Cost

ONTARIO PLANS NEW AID TO INDUSTRY

By utilizing its large resources of off-peak surplus power to produce high temperature heat at low cost, Ontario might become one of the leading centres of the metallurgical and ceramic industries on the American continent, declared Mr. T. Stewart Lyon, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, in a recent address before the Progress Club of Toronto.

The commission proposes to take under consideration plans for the installation of a small semi-commercial plant, which will be used to determine the cost of making hydrogen and oxygen, and demonstrate how these gases can be used in the metallurgical and ceramic industries. Ontario, Mr. Lyon said, has billions of kilowatt hours of electrical energy which are not being used.

TENNIS-COURTS ON ROOF OF FLATS

Gigantic Block Built At Richmond

COVERS NEARLY FOUR AND A HALF ACRES

Lichfield Court, Sheen-road, Richmond, "one of the largest blocks of flats in Europe, will be completed next June.

The site covers nearly 4½ acres, and there will be 211 flats. Some novel features are to be introduced. There will be two tennis courts laid out on the roof, and a garage for use of tenants to hold nearly 150 cars.

Nine electric lifts will be installed in the building. The rents of the flats will range from £78 to £160 a year, the accommodation varying from two to five rooms. A private right of way to Richmond Station will be used by residents.

GLASS BRICKS FOR HOUSE-BUILDING

Shown For First Time In London

A wall built of glass bricks, the first, it is claimed, ever seen in Britain, was recently shown at an exhibition of architectural glass in London.

The wall is translucent without being transparent, so there is no interference with privacy. The brick is hollow and a wall of glass bricks thus contains air-pockets make for heat insulation.

The strength of the glass brick may be gauged from the fact that whereas most clay bricks are crushed under a pressure of 4,000 lbs. per square inch, the glass brick resists up to 5,000 lbs. per square inch.

CANADA'S WATER POWER

Hydro-Electric Work Extending

NEARLY 215,000 H. P. MORE AVAILABLE THIS YEAR

According to the annual review of hydro-electric progress, which has been prepared by the Dominion Water Power and Hydrometric Bureau of the Department of the Interior, the position on the constructional side of the various electrical undertakings in Canada did not greatly differ in 1934 from that in 1933.

No new large stations were initiated, and though the total plant capacity rose to 7,547,035 h.p., or 214,965 h.p. more than in the previous year, this was due to work already in progress or to extensions, and nearly all of it occurred in the province of Quebec, where the completion of the Rapide Blanc scheme on the St. Maurice river accounted for 160,000 h.p., and the installation of a further unit at Beauharnois for 50,000 h.p.

The Rapide Blanc scheme is owned by the Shawinigan Water and Power Company and comprises four 40,000-h.p. units operating under a head of 112 ft. The plant has an unusually large reservoir capacity, from which 10,000 cusecs can be supplied per foot difference in level.

At Beauharnois, yet another 50,000-h.p. unit is nearing completion.

In Western Canada

In British Columbia, a temporary station operating under a head of 1,020 ft. was completed by the Bridge River Power Company for supplying electricity to the neighbouring mines.

The plant consists of a 4,600-h.p. unit, which is fed through a 22-in. steel penstock 2,700 ft. long. The upper end of this penstock is connected to a 14-ft. 3-in. tunnel, 13,000 ft. long, which forms part of the permanent scheme, and is supplied with pumped water from a canal; the latter connects with the river and is filled by the natural flow of the latter.

The pumping plant consists of two vertical sets, with a capacity of 30 cub. ft. per second, being driven by 35-h.p. motors.

In spite of the lull in construction, the output for 1934 not only exceeded that of 1933, but established a record. This expansion was principally due to increased domestic, industrial and commercial demand and not to increased export or to the water heating load. It was most pronounced in Quebec.

Bricks are fire resistant to a temperature exceeding 1,000 deg. Fahr., and, while still red-hot, withstand the cooling effect of a stream from a fire hose with pump pressure of 300 lbs. per square inch.

DETECTING FLAWS IN METALS

LAST MURRAY DAM STARTS SOON

20-Year Plan Enters On Final Phase

CO-ORDINATED WORK OF FOUR GOVERNMENTS

Very shortly 300 men are scheduled to begin erecting dams at the mouth of the River Murray, which will cost £500,000 and take three years to complete.

The dams will restore to settlers around the lower lakes at the Murray mouth approximately the same fresh water conditions as they enjoyed before irrigation drained away volumes of water higher up the river for the fertile blocks of thousands of orchardists and vine growers.

In this work South Australia will begin the last phase of its section of a 20-year programme of co-ordinated effort by four governments to transform the river from an transport and source of water supply to a permanent, wealth-producing waterway.

Costing about £10,000,000 the whole of the work has been borne equally by the governments of New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia and the Commonwealth.

To-day, the Murray is permanently navigable from the mouth to 30 miles above Mildura—about 600 miles—and it is bordered on each side with flourishing settlements.

X-Rays Employed For Magnification

100,000,000 DIAMETERS ACHIEVED

Great progress in magnifying materials is enabling British engineers to detect minute flaws in metals and lessen risk of accidents.

A magnification of about 100,000,000 to 1 was described at a meeting of the Royal Institution here recently by Sir William Bragg, its director.

The molecule, Sir William said, which had hitherto been invisible to the research worker, can now, in a sense, be seen by him. Thanks to X-ray researches, he can see it as a shadow picture. The electron clouds of the atoms can be seen in the same way that clouds in a transparent liquid, in a glass tank would be seen if a bright light shone through it.

Each cloud is densest at its centre, fading to invisibility at its edges.

The picture is generally that of a single unit. When multiplied in all directions, it forms a crystal which builds up to form materials. The positive core of the atom casts no shadow, as the X-rays have no effect on it.

SLUM CLEARANCE IN CANADA

Government Aid For Building Schemes

PREMIER'S PROMISE

The Canadian Prime Minister, Mr. R. B. Bennett, during an address before the delegates attending the Canadian Construction Convention at Montreal promised the co-operation of the Government with the construction industry in its efforts to give employment and urged contractors not to tender for contracts involving loss to themselves. "It is a reflection upon us that there is a housing problem in a young country like Canada, and it will have to be grappled with," he said.

E. J. Bohn of Cleveland, Ohio, president of the National Association of Housing Officials, said that good housing was as much a business question as a social one, investigation in Cleveland and other large cities having shown that the cost to the taxpayer of slum areas is several times greater than the better business and residential quarters. Private enterprise never has been able to provide housing for the poorest classes of citizens; therefore, the duty for doing so, he declared, devolves on governments, either by direct or indirect means.

Bengal Lancers

The crowds that have jostled each other to see this famous film have abundantly justified the enterprise of the Paramount Company in the too rare experiment of creating a show in which the prevailing sentiment is English patriotism, or rather, to be more precise, British Imperialism. There are large numbers of people whose impressions of world events and problems is fundamentally based, not even on the newspapers, much less on books, but on the films; and the interest of the programmes ought to be of as wide an appeal as the strange amalgam of races and creeds and loyalties that constitutes the total of the patrons of the cinema. It is rather surprising that the producers who are reputed to be devotees of the maxim "one hundred per cent. entertainment" and "the verdict of the box office" have allowed themselves to be so hampered by preconceptions that they have treated so large a proportion of their patrons with such indifference, almost with complete neglect.

In advance, critics might have said that in any case the North West frontier was a bad subject because it was connected with militarism, and that the Kipling philosophy was musty and discarded. Kipling's contemporaries, or the generation that admitted his influence over their lives, might have been inclined to agree; for we are now all of the opinion that no war is justified if it can be avoided, and that it is very difficult to say why any man should give his life as a forfeit in far countries in the service of peoples and causes that do not seem to concern him. One of the subalterns in the film puts this points very well when he says to the friend who is calling into question all his own ideals, "how can I explain it when I don't know myself?" In that sentence, he was saying what the films often call "a mouthful," for he got right down to what such social philosophers as Spengler, who is not only up to date, but something of a prophet, have picked out as the basic sentiment of a civilisation: the readiness to make sacrifices, even the great sacrifice, for purposes that men take for granted. It is quite certain that an army of philosophers who insisted that the General should explain to them why they ought to obey his orders, and why they are there at all, would not earn its pay, and would not give much protection to a rich civilian population from bandits and free lances like the Pathan tribes.

The problem in fact is very much up to date, for in the debates about the new Indian Constitution it is the most controversial question. The reason why the expected and formal opposition has suddenly become academic is simply that the popular leaders who look forward to taking prominent positions of responsibility have begun to realise what it would mean to become the guardians of order, without which their duties could not be performed at all. The riots at Peshawar, last week, are only the last instance of the sort of emergency in which a timely interposition of some champions of order for its own sake is extraordinarily useful; and such help cannot be had without giving the protectors of peace some say in the choice of methods and times and policies. The only distinguishing feature of the North West frontier is that the call for watchfulness is permanent, because the love of forays is endemic.

That men should come to love a calling to which they devote so much of their lives is just human nature; without a somewhat specialised enthusiasm no profession can possibly flourish. That is no argument against pacifism in the technical sense of the word; for that should really mean that policy should be guided by the aim of avoiding causes of war, and of ending war as soon as the object for which it is begun has been achieved. When once a general war has got into swing it is as difficult to stop it as to carry it on; and infinitely more difficult than to begin it. While libraries have been written about the causes of the first world war, without producing any unanimous agreement in the historical mind; and the prospect at present is of a gradual cancellation of most of the conditions of peace, which one would have expected to indicate the object for which men fought. But then the object is simply loot, as it is on the border between India and Afghanistan. It is a simple matter to explain why a foray is resisted, and the end comes when such measures have been adopted as may be expected to prevent a repetition. In other words, if we were asked "when is an army not an army?" the answer would be "when it is performing police duties on a scale too big for the police."

Certainly the line is difficult to draw; but so is every other application of political judgment. The recent Labour Congress passed a resolution in favour of employing the British Army only to enforce decisions of the League of Nations. They have been met by the objection that for years they have been teaching their followers not to enlist in the Army, at all; and it is a fact that the recruiting is far

THE BANK AND INDUSTRY

A Financial newspaper challenges the criticism that the Bank of England is not sufficiently in touch with the industries of the country, and prints a list of the Bank's directors with the other directorships which they hold.

The list is instructive. The greatest British industry, agriculture, and the greatest export industry, cotton, are unrepresented on the board by men who are actively engaged in them.

Out of 26 Bank directors, including the Governor and Deputy-governor, only two, Lord Hyndley and Mr. R. D. Kitson, are also directors of companies engaged in the coal and iron industry.

INSURANCE LEADS

On the other hand, the railways provide six directors, shipping three and insurance companies no fewer than ten.

Four directors are on the boards of companies engaged in business in South America. The only Empire Industries represented are South African mining, Canadian fur-trading, railways, oil and tea-planting.

Finally, only one director, Mr. Kitson, is on the board of any motor manufacturing company. The company is Ford's, and in addition to serving on its English board Mr. Kitson is also a director of the French and Dutch subsidiaries.

Your Daily Smile!

The two friends were discussing morning as they sat in the club. "I was once buying a second-hand car from a garage owner," said one. "Of course, he praised it up, as I was a novice. But I found a way of discovering absolutely all its faults."

"How?" asked the other. "Why?" went on the first. "I had it on trial, and took it to another motor dealer and asked him to buy it."

An Example
Husband: "I don't understand why you think I'm careless with money."
Wife: "Well, there's that fire extinguisher you bought two years ago. We've never used it once."

Two Rules
"My boy," said the magnate to his son, "there are two things which are vitally necessary if you are to succeed in business."
"What are they, dad?"
"Honesty and sagacity."

"What is honesty?"
"Always—no matter what happens or how adversely it may affect you—always keep your word once you have given it."
"And sagacity?"
"Never give it."

INNOCENT MAN 9 YEARS IN GAOL

Woman's Confession Bring Freedom

Berlin.
An error of justice has come to light at Thale (Harz). In the summer of 1924 a huntsman was found dead in the woods surrounding Thale. A man named Carl Schmidt was arrested and accused of having fired the fatal shot.

Although he asserted his innocence he was sentenced to ten years' penal servitude. Now, after he has served nine of the ten years, a woman in hospital has confessed that her husband and his brother committed the murder.

The brother killed himself some years ago, but her husband has now been arrested, while Carl Schmidt has been released from prison.

ELIMINATING THE GANGSTER AMERICA'S NEW FORCE OF "FEDERALS"

QUICK-SHOOTING POLICE BEATING CRIME

(By Douglas Williams)

UNDER threat of organised crime, the United States Government has developed a Federal detective force, which for wide activities, skill, enterprise and courage claims to be without parallel in the world.

Four years ago crime had become America's largest business. It was costing the country one-fifth of its national income. Racketeering in innumerable forms, bootlegging, kidnapping, bank robberies and other examples of gangster activities were rife.

Things reached such a pass that drastic action was imperative. At the head of the new detective force, the Bureau of Investigation, as it is known, is the youthful Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, still not 40 years of age.

Hoover's men are fast thinking, quick shooting and upturning, persevering, and in a couple of years they have established a record of such amazing success that the boldest criminal shrinks from contact with the "Federals," as they are called in crime parlance.

Kidnapping Extinct

Quite a short time ago kidnapping—a new form of activity to which bootlegging gangsters, ruined by the repeal of Prohibition, naturally turned—was so common in America that every wealthy child was protected by relays of special guards. To-day, thanks to the ruthless energy of Hoover's men, this crime is practically extinct.

With the finest of clues they have solved every case, as a result of the scientific methods used and the high grade of intelligence of the agents employed.

Every agent, no matter what his previous experience may have been, must attend the special school for investigators in Washington. Later he goes to the United States Marine base at Quantico, where he is taught to use every possible type of lethal weapon, including rifles, hand grenades, smoke bombs, gas bombs and machine-guns.

His education complete, he is then sent out to a selected area for practical experience. But every year he must pay a visit to General Headquarters in Washington for his annual "brushing up," as well as a physical examination.

At headquarters they have a "Who's Who" of 6,000 known gangsters and racketeers still at large, and all these are consistently and relentlessly sought for and watched until they are sent to prison or forced to cease their nefarious activities.

Criminals Shot Down

A list of the criminals eliminated by Mr. Hoover's men is proof alone of the efficacy of his department. It includes such famous "public enemies" as Dillinger, Machine-gun Kelly, Harvey, Bailey, Frankie Nash, Verne Sankey, Pretty Boy Floyd, Baby Face Nelson, Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, and dozens of others of the toughest, most desperate characters the upheavals of this decade have produced. During the last fiscal year the Bureau of Investigation cost the Government $4,880,000, and it is estimated it saved the Government nearly $20,000,000 in insurance against crime, recovery of stolen property, and similar items. It has obtained 95 per cent convictions of cases brought to courts.

On the wall in Mr. Hoover's study hangs a large map of the United States. It is studded with coloured pins each bearing a label with a name. Each pin shows the position of an agent, and during active times—such as a search for a kidnapper—many pins are shifted hourly as planes, motor-cars or trains, carry the men from place to place in their investigations.

Hoover's men meet cold-blooded killers with an equal readiness to use their own guns. They have shot down so many gangsters that the "yellow coyotes," as Hoover calls his enemies, fear the "Federals" more than anything else in the world. "The only thing that these criminals fear," said Hoover recently, "is death. They don't mind gaols because they can get out of them or be released on parole."

But they do fear a man who can shoot quicker and straighter than they can. When Machine-gun Kelly was finally arrested he came out of his hiding-place with his hands above his head. His guns lay on a bed in the room behind him. An agent asked him why he hadn't tried to use them. "I knew you'd kill me if I did," was his simple reply.

On one occasion one of America's worst killers, Pretty Boy Floyd, who was later shot down, offered to bargain with the Division for his surrender. Word was sent back that no bargain could be made. He could either stay hidden or come out and take his chance in the open.

One of the Division's most interesting cases was the successful tracking down of the gang that kidnapped Mr. Charles Urschel, a rich man of Oklahoma City. He was taken from his front porch, where he was playing cards, by a body of masked men at the point of the revolver in July, 1933. After an exhausting imprisonment, blindfolded he was finally returned to his family upon payment of a $200,000 ransom.

As soon as he was safely back the "Federals" started their investigation. The only clue that Urschel could give as to the place where he was hidden during the nine days while the ransom negotiations were completed was that every day at the same hour he heard a plane fly overhead. He also remembered that one day a heavy rain fell and the plane did not go over.

WEDDING BELLS

Pretty Ceremony At St. Joseph's Church

STEPHENS—CASEY

The marriage between Mr. Edward Patrick Casey, of the Public Works Department, and Miss Winifred Dora Stephens was solemnised yesterday afternoon at St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, Mr. Guy Stephens, of the P.W.D., the bride looked charming in a floral organza gown set off with a white picture hat and carrying a sheaf of white carnations.

Attending the bride as matron of honour was Mrs. Guy Stephens, who wore a gown of green awn embroidered with a white picture hat, and who carried a sheaf of pink carnations.

Guests At Wedding

Among the many guests at the wedding ceremony were Mr. Pegz, of the Roads Office, Messrs. Buttress, Howe, Wadmore, Dodson and families of the Public Works Department, Lieut. L. Biddle, R.A.O.C., Inspector R.J. Hunt and family, Hong Kong Police, Messrs. R.R. Wood and A. Williams, of the Sanitary Department, Mrs. Clarke and family, Miss Smith, Sgt. Major Lappard and family, Royal Engineers, and Messrs. Dudley, Buddon, Bailey, and Greenhill, of the Royal Engineers.

The duties of best man were ably performed by Mr. K. Pederson, of Messrs. Backhouse and Co.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Lane and Crawford's where the many friends of the happy couple gathered to toast their future happiness.

Later the bride and groom left to spend their honeymoon at Minca, the bride looking pretty in a blue crepe de chine dress, with grey silk coat and hat to match.

KOWLOON WEDDING

The marriage of Mr. Carlos Alfred Gaan and Miss Doris Hazel Westerhout, officiated by the Reverend Father Rossi took place at the Rosary Church yesterday.

Mr. Gaan is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Gaan and his bride is the daughter of Mrs. C. M. d'Amela.

Attending the bride were the Misses Thoma Pereira, Hilda Gaan, Maureen and Marjorie Westerhout, and Lilla Gaan as flower girl.

Mr. Arthur Barretto acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at No. 10, Observatory Villas, Kowloon.

The happy couple will spend their honeymoon in Singapore.

SCOUT TREK TO CANTON

RECORD TIME OF 3 3/4 DAYS

A party of Boy Scouts, numbering 13 in all, have just returned from what may be considered a unique experience.

They have just completed a walk from Hong Kong to Canton in the record time of three and three-quarter days.

The scouts were representatives of the 1st Hong Kong (St. Joseph's) Troop, and Mr. Quah Cheow-cheang, the District Scoutmaster, and Assistant Scoutmaster M. G. Lenz, were in charge of the party.

Starting on Wednesday, the party entrained to Shum Chun and commenced their long walk from that point. On the first day they covered eight miles, but on the second day they did no less than 28 miles, while on the third day they again walked 28 miles.

A warm welcome awaited them at Canton from the scouts there. They arrived back in the Colony by the s.s. Fatshan yesterday.

Native Of Chicago Sent To Local House Of Detention

Appearing before Mr. E. I. Wynne Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning on a charge of stowing away on the s.s. Lagenbank, from Manila, Joseph Mikis, a 22-year-old unemployed, and a native of Chicago, America, was sent to the House of Detention, pending enquiries from the American Consul in Hong Kong.

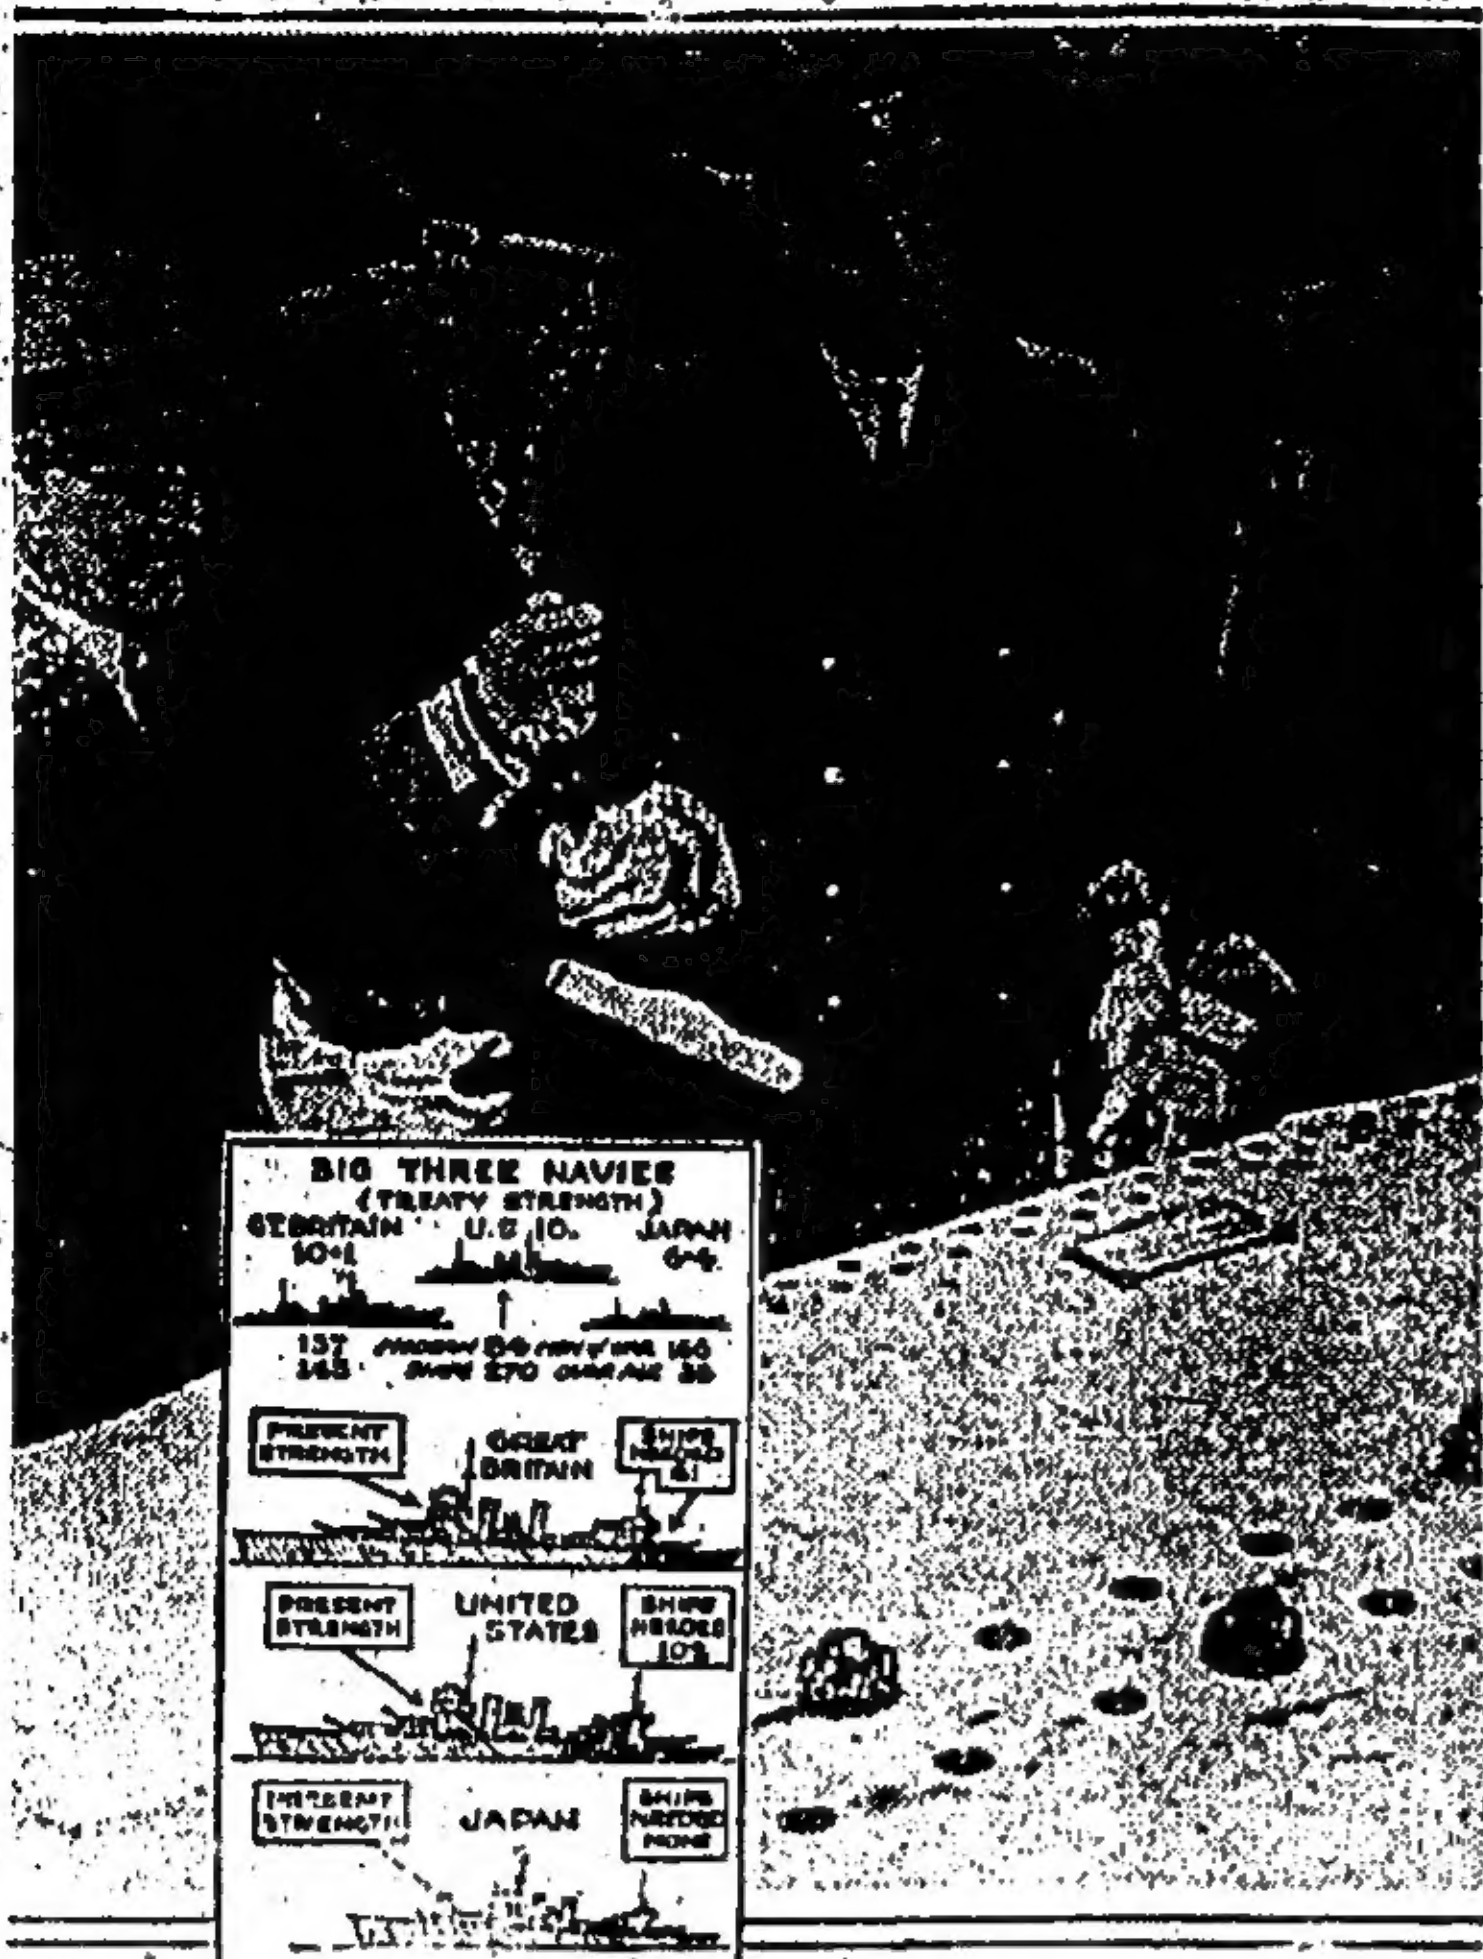

Detective-Inspector Whant, of the Water Police Station, stated in his prosecution that the defendant had travelled from America to Manila as a passenger aboard the s.s. President Jackson to see a friend, but he was unable to find his friend. While in Manila he had had his passport and U.S.$80 stolen from him.

The s.s. Lagenbank left Manila on April 20 and when only six hours out of port defendant gave himself up.

The defendant then said that he had boarded the ship under the impression that it was going to Shanghai, where he wished to see an uncle of his.

At the conclusion of the case Mr. Wynne Jones asked the police to get in touch with the defendant's uncle.

Raymond G. Ingersoll, borough president of Brooklyn, drives the first rivet in the keel of the new U.S.S. Brooklyn with Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, Navy Yard commander, looking on, as the Navy starts building up to treaty strength. The chart shows how far it has to go to match Britain and exceed Japan.

CHEUNG CHAU NOTES

Scout Troops Visit Island

HARBOUR MISSION BOAT'S DEPARTURE

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Easter Day.

We had quite a good number of visitors for the Easter recess, which was favoured with perfect weather, including about two dozen scouts and their leaders. A service was held in the Assembly Hall this morning to which visitors and residents were invited. The body of the hall was well filled, the front seats being occupied by the scout troops—the 4th Hong Kong (Murray) and the 4th Kowloon (Garrison).

The service was conducted by Group Scoutmaster G.R. Ross, who spoke on "Who shall roll away the stone."

The scout camp in laid out beyond No. 33 in the west-end.

Another military, but peaceful, invasion is expected early to-morrow morning. A party of soldiers, in connection with Fraternity-Hut, will be here to bathe and picnic.

The previous week we had several families from Canton for the Ching Ming Festival.

The Harbour Mission boat has departed after a stay of about five or six weeks.

The big matched theatre has been partly demolished and a smaller one erected at Saiwan Bay.

The road to the Red Cross Hospital has been completed and the work of the Relief Mission to the boat people continues to grow, and candidates are being prepared for Baptism on April 28.

Assistant Scoutmaster M. G. Lenz, were in charge of the party.

Starting on Wednesday, the party entrained to Shum Chun and commenced their long walk from that point. On the first day they covered eight miles, but on the second day they did no less than 28 miles, while on the third day they again walked 28 miles.

A warm welcome awaited them at Canton from the scouts there. They arrived back in the Colony by the s.s. Fatshan yesterday.

Today's Short Story.

Drought

By Crispin Ross

JOE GAINSFORD knew more about sheep than any other farmer in Cumberland or Westmorland; aye, or across the Border. Everybody was agreed on that. The walls of his kitchen, his parlour and even his bedroom at Buttergill, the long, low, stone farmhouse at the foot of the Pass, were plastered with "Firsts," "Seconds" and "Highly Commandeds" awarded him at the Fell Dales and other shows.

When he gave up showing—"just to give others a chance," as he half jokingly, half seriously expressed it—he became the recognised judge for Herdwick all over the country. The proudest day of his life was when he was first asked to judge the little fell sheep at the Royal. And he was naturally a proud man; proud of his sheep and his breeding of them; proud of the deference paid to his knowledge, even in London and by the flockmasters of the South, where the big, broad sheep were so different from his own shaggy, half-wild little Herdwick; and especially proud of his independence as a "statesman" and the descendant of untold generations of Cumbrian "statesmen"—the local name for yeoman farmers.

He was a good neighbour and a good master. None ever sought his help in vain. If a sheep were to volunteer to go to its aid; and not even Tommy Musgrave, the huntaman, was a better cragsman than the farmer of Buttergill.

Only in one aspect did he show a lack of understanding. He never took kindly to social legislation. He grumbled every time he stuck a stamp on the insurance card of a servant or hired man. His inbred spirit of independence rebelled at the thought that by so doing he was encouraging others to lose their sense of independence. As for the Old Age Pension and the men and women who accepted it, he could barely find words with which to express his contempt. Everybody knew of his weakness and paid no heed to his grumblings; not even at election time.

Joe did well during the war years, as did every flockmaster. Wool brought high prices, even the coarse wool of the Herdwick, and the sweet mutton of the little sheep was in great demand. Month by month he banked his money, for life at the farm went on as it had since the day he took over from his father; there was no inducement to spend up there amid the fells, especially as Joe had been a widower for six years and declared himself too old to go looking for another woman the equal of Mary.

Yet he was well pleased each time he conked his pass-book. For he had a secret, cherished since the days following Mary's last journey down the vale to the churchyard, where a glorious copper beech overhangs the lych gate and dark, saws edge the path to the white-washed church. None knew what Mary's loss meant to Joe Gainsford. He showed no undue signs of grieving. But Buttergill was never the same to him afterwards.

It was then he gave up showing and took to judging; and as he attended the big shows and saw the prize Southdowns and Leicesters and all the other big breeds, a desire to own such sheep himself grew and developed. He met and talked with the flockmasters of the South. It was second nature with him to pick up points. He tried crossing with his own Herdwick. But that did not satisfy, and the sparse herbage of the fells, the bitter winter weather, the excessive rain all told against the stranger breeds.

No, the only thing was to go South himself. It was a tremendous thought. At first it loomed impossible. Every trend, every appeal, every instinct bound him to the North. He was a daleman by birth and breeding. The fells were in his blood. Moreover, he was a Gainsford of Buttergill. There had been Gainsfords at Buttergill for hundreds of years. The churchyard was half full of them.

The last and strongest link of all snapped suddenly one night when, as he was going up to bed, candle in hand, he stopped on the landing to gaze at Mary's portrait—an enlargement in a heavy gilt frame. He stood and looked at the kindly, smiling presentment for fully a minute; then went on, undressed, and got into bed. He could not sleep. Mary was gone; there would never be another woman to take her place; there was no child. He was the last of the Gainsfords. The last. What did it matter, then, if he left Buttergill—left the North—went South?

So his mind was made up. He did not go at once. There was much to be done; and that in secret so far as his neighbours were concerned. They had the shock of their lives when the sale was announced. They waylaid him at market; they tramped up to Buttergill; they sought him out at all times and in all places. They questioned, argued, pleaded. Some went so far as to ridicule the idea that he could run a South-country farm, even a sheep farm.

The film "Flying Down To Rio," has been banned in Berlin on the grounds that it is immodest.

WARNER'S ACQUISITION

Warner Bros. have acquired the Universal Studios for $39,000,000.

Chan Kwong, aged 19, was this morning bound over in a bond of $50 for one year by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Magistrate's Court for the theft of clothing from Laung Sui Shan No. 26 Possession Street.

DR. GAULD IS ASKED TO RETURN

No Reference To Carr

A few minutes later, votes of thanks were being passed lavishly, including one to the Duke of Portland, the late president, who had refused to have anything more to do with the club since the January decision. But none went to A. W. Carr for his services as captain in spite of the promise in the report that: "At the annual meeting the committee and members will have an opportunity of recording their appreciation."

Someone rose in the body of the hall to remind the chairman of this, but Alderman Huntsman cut him short with: "The meeting is now closed."

Mr. Carr's name is included among the 14 nominations by the opposition, another being that of Sir Harold Bowden. There is, however, little prospect of Carr's return to the captaincy.

To-night Mr. Carr said to me: "The welfare of Notts cricket is above all personal considerations. I only hope I may be allowed to do my bit in one way or other."

"Notts Have Owned Up"

The decision of the Nottinghamshire members has met with much satisfaction in cricket circles.

Mr. H. J. Enthoven, joint captain of Middlesex last season, said last night:

"I know our committee will be extraordinarily pleased. This is the first time that Nottinghamshire have owned up that they have been at fault. A reassuring statement such as this is what everybody wants. If they stick to their word, which they will undoubtedly do, everything should be all right."

Notts Quite Wrong

Sir Francis Lacey, a member of the M.C.C. Committee and for 25 years secretary of M.C.C., said:

"I think the whole cricket world will overlook the past and trust to the future. It is my own opinion that the Nottinghamshire Club were quite wrong and made a mistake, and they are now trying to do the right thing. They can do no more than that. They are taking the honourable course."

The Rev. J. H. Parsons, the well-known Warwickshire cricketer, who, shortly before the M.C.C. tour in Australia in 1932-33, attacked the type of bowling which has caused so much trouble, said:

Warwickshire Comment

"I am frightfully pleased it has happened. Let us hope the grand old game of cricket will come into its own again. The action of the Nottinghamshire Club was in itself magnificent. If it is all settled I feel that cricket will benefit tremendously."

"There are, however, doubts in my mind as to whether the question is really finished. It had gained such a firm hold on cricket and through people belittling the question the game was done a lot of harm."

"Bowling of that type appealed to the basest things in human nature and not to the fine feelings, and it was completely ruining the game."

DROUGHT

Joe maintained a calm, unruffled demeanour, as he had done when Mary died. None knew the struggle he had had with himself, and was still having. For now the die was cast, the wrench hurt cruelly. But he was not the man to turn back once he had set hand to the plough. So the stock was sold. Buttergill, too, with its sheep rights on the fells. And the furniture went South, and Joe with it, to a farm in a fold of the Downs.

The bank manager to whom he carried a letter of introduction from his brother manager up North received him with deference. Joe Gainsford was a man of substance.

That was not enough. He wanted to be more. He wanted to be as big a man in the world of "real" sheep as he had been among the little Herdwicks. Bigger. There would never be another Gainsford at Buttergill; but long after he was dead they would still talk about him up there as the best breeder and judge of Herdwicks for generations. And he was going to see to it that all England—and all the world, where sheep were bred and sold—knew of Joe Gainsford and his flock, his rams and his breeding ewes.

So he bought both well and freely. It was a different life from that to which he had been accustomed. But he adopted himself.

Where there had been red, blue and yellow prize cards at Buttergill there were now rosettes and silver cups. For he was showing. Once more. And winning. And never satisfied. Where he had paid pounds for a tup in the North, he now paid hundreds for a ram he desired. The ram was worth the money, too, as defeated bidders ruefully admitted. But they had other interests besides sheep and other drains on their resources. Joe had none. He could afford to spend lavishly, for he spent his all on sheep, and sheep only.

He had been ten years down South when there came the summer of the great drought. Days and weeks went by with never a drop of rain, never any respite from the wasting, drying heat that shrivelled up the herbage and caused great cracks in the heavier land of the valley. What breeze there was up on the rounded summit of the Downs was hot and parching. Even the nights were warm. There was no dew.

One by one the pools and land springs dried, to become but hard patches of baked, cracked mud. The dew ponds followed. There was no moisture anywhere, and every blade of grass was but a sapless growth. Joe could make nothing of it. At Buttergill there had always been water. Water everywhere, even in the hottest summers. Water tumbling down from the fell tams; water trickling and seeping through untold channels; water in the beck that filled the dale day and night with the music of its flow.

He had never known what it was to go short of water for man or beast. But now the quivering joint of thirsty, hungry sheep was over in his ears; sound most pitiful. He drove them slowly in the evening from pond to pond. He watched their strength and substance fall away as pond after pond gave out. Each morning he scanned the cloudless heaven: blue and beautiful, but pitiless. Each day he tramped across his land, hearing the dried bents rustle and crackle underfoot, realising there was no longer any "feed" for his flock.

It was terrible to see the poor creatures as they lay in the hollows of the hills, mere shadows of what they had been. Joe worked doggedly and made his men work with him. From place to place they moved the sheep. They carted food and water, buying where they could, paying extortionate prices. But there was no more resilience in the farmer's banking account than in the shrivelled herbage of his land. He had spent like a millionaire, investment was disappearing before his eyes and the bank manager, still deferential, regretted he could not grant "an overdraft" without security.

To save a remnant, as he hoped, Joe sacked his men. He himself could look after the score or so of gaunt creatures left to him. He was as haggard as they, worn to a shadow by the long, incessant, seemingly endless struggle. Unless the drought broke soon the end was inevitable.

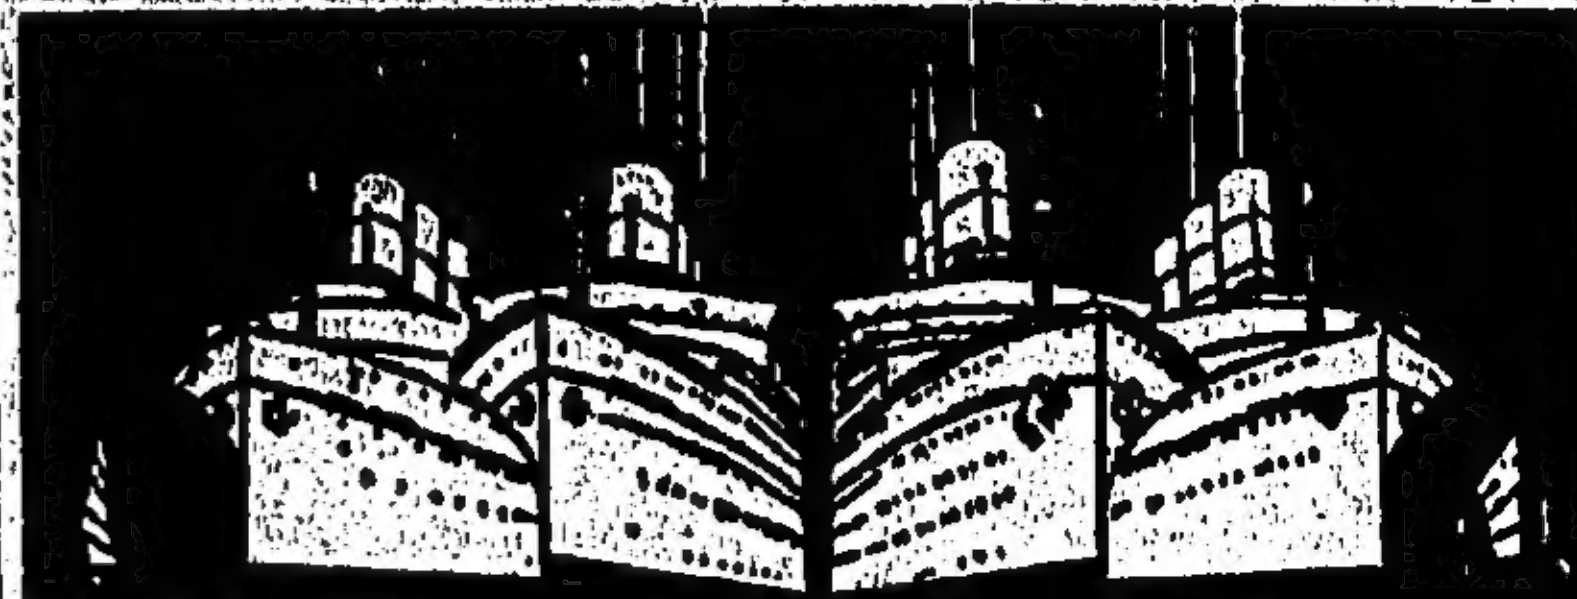

The drought did not break. Day succeeded day with the sky clear and pitiless. Clouds of flies rose into the hot, dry air from time to time as they were disturbed by a feasting crow or rat, and the stench of death rose with them.

From pond to pond the farmer trudged, seeking but the muddy druggs for the remnant of his flock. Far across the Downs, in a dip, he found an inch or so of water in a long-forgotten dew pond. He hurried home. Six of the sheep still lived. Once they had been his pride, champions each one of them. Their silver trophies no longer graced his sideboard; they had been sold to buy the needed "keep." A ram there was for which a record price had been paid—a price that brought Joe Gainsford's name into the daily papers, that added to his growing fame and satisfied his pride. With that ram and the remaining ewes he could build anew his flock. And so he hurried home to take them to the pond.

They were too weak to walk. Joe picked one up and carried it. It was the ram, the apple of his eye. The evening shadows lengthened on the Downs as, wearily, staggering with his own weakness, he carried each sheep singly in his aching arms and laid it by the pond. In vain. All died that night. And still the drought continued.

It was the end. Joe Gainsford sold his implements and furniture to pay his rent and debts. When this was done he had enough to take him North again. He went. And in a two-roomed cottage high amid the fells he lived alone and tramped down to the village once a week to draw the Old Age Pension. [THE END]

ATTORNEY GENERAL IN COURT

Chauffeur Cautioned

The Honourable Mr. C. G. Alabaster, the Attorney-General, was present in the First Court at the Central Magistracy this morning when his driver, Wong Tim, was discharged with a caution by Mr. W. Schofield for driving car No. 3509 without due care and caution.

Traffic-Sergeant Brown, appearing for the prosecution, stated that defendant was driving along Queen's Road Central from East to West. On reaching the King's Theatre he put out his right hand and drove towards the Queen's Theatre, and then suddenly swerved back to the King's Theatre, causing a motorcycle, which was following behind the car, almost to skid.

Mr. Alabaster stated that there was no case to answer as nothing had happened.

In discharging defendant Mr. Schofield warned him to be more careful in future and to slow down when turning.

DANCE MUSIC NOW MAJOR INDUSTRY

Huge Earnings Of Bands

New York: Dance music has become one of America's major industries. A survey just completed by "American Magazine" shows that the earnings of the 20 leading bands in 1934 exceeded $7,000,000. Waring's heads the list with a gross of more than a million.

There are 19 orchestras that are paid U.S.$1,000 or more—mostly more—every time they appear before a microphone, usually for a half-hour performance.

Approximately 150,000 professional orchestras scattered the nation over, now are employed in manufacturing the product known as dance music.

PILGRIM DROWNS IN SACRED RIVER

Enters Water And Sinks

A Hindu pilgrim walked 1,000 miles from the Punjab to bathe in the holy waters of the Kistna river at Bezwada.

As soon as he entered the water he sank and drowned. His body was recovered later, but he has not been identified.

There are 40,265 theatres throughout the world equipped for sound pictures.

ROBERT HAAS ARRIVES HERE ON SOUTHERN MISSION

He had travelled chiefly by road while in China, in order to make the best possible observation of the country's development.

Road communications in Chekiang, Kiangsi and Hunan were very good, and the provinces were fast developing the main routes of the country, he said.

He had also travelled, he said, on the newly-constructed railway between Chekiang and Kiangsi, which had been built entirely by Chinese labour and from Chinese resources. Only the Chekiang half of the project had at present been completed, but work was fast progressing on the other half.

Mr. Haas leaves to-night for Canton where he hopes to make arrangements with the Government officials for a visit to the newly developed areas in Kwangtung and Kwangsi.

"China has made rapid development in wireless and telephone communications in the North and it will not be very long before the entire country will be linked up," he concluded.

HIS CANTON VISIT

"When the League of Nations designated Mr. Haas to act as Secretary General of the Lytton Commission," Dr. Kan said, "Mr. Haas was then in Shanghai. I had the pleasure of inviting him to Nanking and, as I was in charge of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, of holding the first exchange of views between the Chinese Government and the Lytton Commission."

"Mr. Haas was very sympathetic and I was impressed by his fair-mindedness in reviewing the happenings on and after September 18, 1931. He is largely responsible for the historic document known as the Lytton Report."

"In view of the growing importance of the South-western provinces in international relations, I have long suggested the visit of a League representative to Canton. When Dr. Rajchman was in China, I made this suggestion to him through a friend. But new developments necessitated his return to Europe. The visit of Mr. Haas will surely enable the League to gain a better knowledge of the aspirations and desires of the Chinese people and their efforts in constructive work and in political and economic improvements."

VALUABLE PAMPHLET
"Mr. Wu Shu-feng is a distinguished student of international affairs. When he was in Geneva, Chinese statesmen were very much assisted by his admirable reports on the international situation in

CINEMA PRICE WAR INTENSIFIED

Oriental Action

Following closely on the heels of the reduction in the prices of admission to the four major pictures houses, the Central, Alhambra, King's and Queen's, comes the announcement that the popular Oriental Theatre will make another drastic cut in prices as from to-morrow.

Under the new scheme it will cost only 55 cents to obtain admission to the best seats in the house, the dress circle. Front stall seats will cost only 20 cents and the backs stalls 35 cents. Service men in uniform will be admitted to the circle for 40 cents.

REDS WIPED OUT IN S. KIANGSI

The troops were despatched to the area of Sam-pak-shan to search for remnant outlaws and met with the band in a spot near Chang-chi-shui. In the encounter, one bogus captain and one bogus political director were killed and 43 of the marauders taken prisoners.—Central Press.

ROOSEVELT ATTACKED

RELIEF FUND THREAT
A Reuter's message of Sunday stated:—

Following the enactment of the Louisiana State Bill which places the responsibility for spending millions of dollars of Federal funds under control of the Huey Long faction, Mr. Harold Ickes, Secretary for the Interior in the Washington Administration, has threatened to cut off all relief funds to Louisiana.

Senator Long, who is virtually the dictator of the State of Louisiana, has replied, declaring: "If the Government starts cutting off relief funds from Louisiana, Roosevelt will find that someone else can stage a Boston tea party."

Senator Long's declaration is taken as a challenge of a serious nature. He apparently is threatening to attempt secessionist movement in the South unless the Federal Government allows him to administer the federal relief funds in his state as he sees fit.

Senator Long has described the Federal Relief Administrators as "crooks, thieves and rascals."

Europe and America. He has recently given us a valuable pamphlet, China's Foreign Policy in view of the International Politics and the Far Eastern Problems."

Dr. Kan added that he has sent his secretary, Mr. Tsang Yuan-feng, to Hong Kong to welcome the distinguished visitors, who are expected to arrive there to-day.
